

Did You Know ?

In 1582, Pope Gregory XIII changed the new year date from April 1st to January 1st. Some people ignored the change and kept celebrating on April 1st. They were called "fools," and this led to the tradition of April Fool's Day.

WHAT IS NEW ZEALAND RISING?

New Zealand Rising is an alliance of separate groups and individuals from all across New Zealand who believe in a better future. We are many different people with different views, however we all share a common vision for the future.

"We, the people, stand united for a New Zealand that is respectful, includes everyone, and is free of government overreach."

"Kia tūkotahi tātou o Aotearoa, hei whakarangatira tātou i a tātou. Herea te Kāwanatanga, kia kore e pēhia te mana o te tāngata."

Our website contains a directory of all groups around New Zealand that share this vision.

From the Editor: The 1st of April is my favorite day of the year. I love keeping a "sense of humour perspective" and some of the readers here will have been a recipient of my April 1st pranks. I sprang a phone prank on one of my local awakened friends last year, and he enlightened me about the origins of April Fools, and took the wind out of my sails, temporarily. He's an expert at pointing out common assumptions we take for granted. The lesson learned: We're in a time when everything seems like shifting sand. But follow your heart. We've been fooled about many things, if not everything. Once we connect the dots, we're stronger than ever. This is another issue of connecting the dots, and it's been a busy couple of weeks.

Judge: “Unreasonable risk of harm” from fluoridation not enough for an injunction.

Whangarei District Council’s (WDC) application for an interim injunction seeking to delay the start of fluoridation until their substantive case has been heard later this year has been declined.

WDC has been ordered by the Director-General of Health to start fluoridation or face severe fines ($200K plus $10K every day thereafter).

WDC’s application was partly declined on technicalities (see below) but the more important consideration was the risk to public health, which was dismissed by Justice Grau.

The witnesses for WDC, Professors Lanphear and Grandjean, two of the world’s leading experts on developmental neurotoxicity, are relied upon by the US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for their expertise. Read the rest of this news here:

Police acknowledge ‘exposure to potential foreign interference’ concerns

Police have acknowledged their trips to China “caused concern regarding exposure to potential foreign interference”.

A police review has acknowledged “concern regarding exposure to potential foreign interference”, after Stuff exposed two trips to China by nearly 70 police staff. They’ve now updated their policy. But Chinese dissidents say they feel “completely ignored” by the police response, and are backing calls for a full inquiry. Paula Penfold investigates.

A police review of controversial trips to China in the wake of a Stuff investigation has forced internal policy change and an acknowledgement of “concern regarding exposure to potential foreign interference”.

The trips, in 2019 and 2024, were organised by the Ethnic Responsiveness Manager for Tāmaki Makaurau, Jessica Phuang, and involved 69 police staff. Read the rest of this story at Stuff here:

NZ First Bill Will Take Conscience Issues to a Referendum

New Zealand First's Conscience Acts Referendums Bill proposes that any legislation deemed a “conscience act”, after being debated and voted on by MPs, must be put to a public referendum at the next election.

NZ First leader Winston Peters says, "The bill will give democracy back to the people and that will remove the power of MPs' conscience votes and ensure mandatory national referendums are held before any conscience issues are passed into law.

Peters said that temporarily empowered politicians “should not be the ones making the final decision on issues that change the social fabric. This Bill gives power and control over the social direction of our nation back to the people”. Says Peters, "The “Conscience Acts Referendums Bill” will require that any legislation deemed as a “conscience Act” by the Speaker of the House, once debated and voted on by parliament, will be put to a public referendum at the next election so it is the people that make the final decision."

Some commentators supported the Bill, noting that recent controversial reforms had been passed by conscience votes, and that MPs tended to be more socially liberal than average Kiwis. Others cautioned that MPs were elected to make decisions on behalf of their constituents and that the Bill could make it more difficult to implement legislative change. Dear New Zealand First MPs

On 17 December 2024, most New Zealanders were greatly looking forward to a well-earned Christmas and summer holiday break with family. But that day was also the last day that Parliament sat and this was when the government decided to squeeze through the First Reading of a proposed Bill — the Gene Technology Bill — which now marks this day as one of the darkest in New Zealand history.

Clouding the Truth with Selective Reporting Post Vaccine Symptom Check (PVSC) Tale Continues

From NZDSOS:

Some readers may recall the lengthy saga to try to get access to data from New Zealand's active monitoring of vaccine safety – the Post Vaccine Symptom Check (PVSC). This was the data collected when random people were sent a text after their vaccination to ask about their health.

Despite OIA requests and a complaint to the Ombudsman, the data in the open text boxes was not made available.

The publicly released PVSC reports suggested all was well. People experienced mild and short-lived symptoms as expected – a bit of a sore arm, a headache, some flu-like symptoms... Read the rest of this post here:

"Best Speech in the History of The United Nations"

Argentina - President Addresses United Nations General Debate, 79th Session
Javier Gerardo Milei, President of the Argentine Republic, addresses the General Debate of the 79th Session of the General Assembly of the UN (New York, 24 -28 and 30 of September 2024).

To the authorities of the United Nations, representatives of the various member countries, and all the citizens of the world that are watching us, good afternoon. For those of you who are not aware, I'm not a politician. I'm an economist. I'm a liberal libertarian economist who never aimed to be a politician, but who was honored to become the President of the Republic of Argentina, following the resounding failure of more than a century of collectivist policies that destroyed our country. This is my first speech to the United Nations General Assembly, and I'd like to take this opportunity to humbly alert the different nations of the world about the path that we are moving down, and have been for decades, and about the danger of this organization failing, as it has been doing in its original mission. I haven't come here to tell the world what it should be doing, I've come here to tell the world, on the one hand, what will happen if the United Nations continues to promote... Read the full transcript here

The University of Michigan said it will eliminate all diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts following the Trump administration's warning that colleges with discriminatory policies could lose federal funding. The changes include shutting down two diversity offices and ending its DEI 2.0 Strategic Plan. This follows earlier steps to phase out DEI-related requirements, such as removing mandatory DEI statements in admissions, hiring, promotions, awards, and performance reviews. President Donald Trump signed an executive order on March 27 directing the removal of what he deemed “improper, divisive, or anti-American ideology” from facilities operated by the Smithsonian Institution. Under Trump’s order, the institution will be prohibited from funding exhibits that “degrade shared American values, divide Americans by race, or promote ideologies inconsistent with Federal law.” It also states that the American Women’s History Museum, which is currently under development, will only be allowed to host exhibits or programs that celebrate the achievements of women and not those of transgender-identifying individuals. The order also directs Interior Secretary Doug Burgum to restore federal parks, monuments, memorials, statues, and markers that have been “improperly removed or changed in the last five years to perpetuate a false revision of history or improperly minimize or disparage certain historical figures or events.” - <https://www.theepochtimes.com/us/trump-issues-order-to-eliminate-improper-divisive-ideology-at-smithsonian-museums-5832783>

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services is creating a new sub-agency under the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention that will focus on vaccine injuries. HHS Secretary Robert Kennedy Jr said: “We’re incorporating an agency within CDC that is going to specialize in vaccine injuries. These are priorities for the American people. More and more people are suffering from these injuries, and we are committed to having gold-standard science to make sure that we can figure out what the treatments are and that we can deliver the best treatments possible to the American people.” He said the pathway to creating the sub-agency wasn’t easy, that when he requested data from the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, an HHS agency, he was told HHS would have to purchase it. Biologist Christina Parks, Ph.D., who has studied vaccine injuries, said the new sub-agency “will legitimize the suffering of millions of Americans and people around the world who have suffered the agonizing effects of vaccine injury on their health or the health of a child or loved one.” “Once the reality of vaccine injury is accepted, it will open the door to working with doctors to set a standard of care for acute vaccine injuries that has the potential to mitigate the damage caused by these events and speed recovery,” Parks said.

Dr. Peter Marks, former director of the FDA's Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research, resigned on March 28, 2025, with an overly dramatic letter citing conflicts with Health and Human Services Secretary Robert F. Kennedy Jr. over vaccine misinformation. His tenure was marked by significant controversies, particularly concerning the approval and oversight of COVID-19 diagnostics and vaccines. James Lyons-Weiler commented: "Marks allowed policy to outrun science, and for that, the consequences were both medical and moral. This was not science. It was theater—and deadly theater at that. When confronted with criticism, Dr. Marks' default response was to accuse others of spreading misinformation—even when the concerns were based on FDA's own data." John Leake writes *"Every statement in Marks's letter is a mere assertion—an Article of Faith. I rejoice at the news of Marks's departure, which will have a salubrious and rejuvenating effect on the entire Department. Health and Human Services will never make a contribution to fostering health if its top positions are filled with ideologues whose primary function is the maintenance of orthodoxy. Brian Hooker, Ph.D., chief scientific officer for Children's Health Defense, said the reaction to Marks' departure on the part of the markets and the pharmaceutical industry is indicative of the influence Big Pharma had over the FDA. California and Maine are now facing federal investigations for allegedly hiding the purported "gender identity" of students from their parents. The Department of Education accuses both states of violating the Family Educational Rights Privacy Act, which "gives parents the right to access their children's educational data." Secretary of Education Linda McMahon called it "immoral." "The agency launched today's investigation to vigorously protect parents' rights and ensure that students do not fall victim to a radical transgender ideology that often leads to family alienation and irreversible medical interventions," Secretary McMahon stated. Trump's Department of Education is also working to protect parental rights in Maine, opening a similar investigation. The investigation follows “reports that dozens of Maine school districts are violating or misusing FERPA by maintaining policies that infringe on parents’ rights.” A Federalist investigation concluded “at least 57 of Maine’s 192 school districts have policies that exclude parents from knowing whether their children start identifying as transgender. - <https://www.lifesitenews.com/news/trump-admin-investigating-maine-california-for-hiding-childrens-gender-confusion-from-parents>

The second bill, HB 300, strengthens protections for female athletes of all ages, ensuring they are not forced to share intimate spaces with males or compete against males on their sports teams. “Montana is right to protect the privacy, safety, and dignity of women and girls, and to ensure that female athletes of all ages continue to have a fair and level playing field,” said ADF Senior Counsel Matt Sharp, director of the ADF Center for Public Policy. Sharp added: “Letting men intrude into women’s spaces and on their sports teams is an invasion of privacy, a threat to their safety, and a denial of the real biological differences between the sexes.”

Those who virtue signal and say we can't give into Russia but have no solution to stopping thousands of kids dying every day. ... I have contempt for such people and I want to make that clear. Josh Stylman, in a lengthy essay this week wrote: "To those who now post about the next trending cause while pretending the last few years never happened: Your performative activism has been exposed for what it always was—a social fashion accessory, discarded the moment real courage was required. You've lost all credibility to speak about inclusion, justice, or human rights. You didn't just observe discrimination—you celebrated it. You didn't just ignore medical coercion—you demanded it. You didn't just witness the silencing of the injured – you actively participated in it. The unvaccinated and vaccine-injured represent the most brutally marginalized groups in recent American history. The scale of this systematic exclusion was unprecedented in modern America:

Over 7 million Americans lost jobs due to mandates

22,000 military service members discharged

50,000+ healthcare workers terminated

Countless families denied access to basic services

Children barred from schools and activities

The injured systematically denied medical care and disability benefits

No other group in recent history has faced such comprehensive banishment from society—excluded from workplaces, education, travel, entertainment, and even basic medical care, all while being publicly demonized by mainstream media and entertainment figures." - <https://brownstone.org/articles/how-performative-activism-enabled-mass-persecution/>

Message from the Canadian Taxpayer Federation – "YOU ended the consumer carbon tax TODAY. The carbon tax went from 17 cents a litre of gas to zero today. That's saving millions of Canadians money and it happened because of one person: YOU. Politicians didn't remove the carbon tax because they wanted to. The carbon tax is now set at zero because hundreds of thousands of taxpayers like you forced them to do it. That's a real accomplishment."

A new journal has been launched entitled the Journal of the Academy of Public Health. The journal is the brainchild of Jay Bhattacharya, President Donald Trump's pick to direct the National Institutes of Health, and Martin Kulldorff who became known for his opposition to lockdowns, child vaccination, and other public health measures during the Covid-19 pandemic. Its editorial board also includes Trump's pick to lead the Food and Drug Administration, Johns Hopkins University surgeon Marty Makary, who also opposed vaccine mandates. You know this journal must be doing good work because only two days after the Journal of the Academy of Public Health's official launch, Science Magazine criticised it in a news item. Science is worried that the journal will be used "to sow doubt about scientific consensus on matters such as vaccine efficacy and safety."

America's Frontline Doctors is calling for a ban on the radical agenda of the 'Medical Mutilation Industry'. They state – "A moratorium must be placed on offering these practices to children. Minors cannot possibly give informed consent for such life-changing decisions such as permanent sterility and a life without sexual pleasure. Irreversible interventions must be limited to adults who have the ability to give informed consent and who have first been offered reversible treatments." AFD has also launched the 'Trans Predator Watchlist'. Their goal is to expose the individuals and entities responsible for maiming and sterilizing our children. - <https://secure.anedot.com/america-s-frontline-doctors/mutilation>

In just a few months as Secretary of Health and Human Services, Robert F. Kennedy Jr. has done more to clean up this corrupt system than any of his predecessors combined. He launched a ground breaking Chemical Contaminants Transparency Tool, giving the American people access to what's really in their food and water. He began reforming the FDA's reckless GRAS loophole, which has allowed dangerous chemicals into your pantry for decades. He suspended vaccine contracts that posed clear conflicts of interest. He called out nutritional deficiencies and offered vitamin A and diet as part of the federal response to measles—something no health official has dared to say since the vaccine was introduced. ICAN delivered the following message: "Let's not forget: this movement is built on people waking up, joining in, and standing shoulder to shoulder with those willing to lead. And no one has led longer or sacrificed more than Robert F. Kennedy Jr. While critics complain from the sidelines, Bobby is dismantling corruption brick by brick. He is reimagining the agency that helped destroy public trust—and rebuilding it around honesty, science, and transparency. But here's the truth: he can't do it without us."

Hackable Humans (Part 2) Brain Games

By Julius Ruechel

A three-part deep dive into the psychological unravelling of Western society the origins, the hackable nature of our brains, and the uncertain future of democracy. (Essay and Podcast)

1. How Faulty Software Updates Get Uploaded to the Hive Mind

Everyone thinks they know how to make a pencil until they're asked how they would mine and refine the graphite to make the lead, how to build the chainsaw used to cut down the tree to make the wood, how to build the lathe to mill that wood into the shape of a pencil, how to mine and refine the steel required to build the lathe that mills the wood, how to make the machines that are required for mining and refining the raw iron ore required to make that steel, and so on. (If you've never read the famous story of I, Pencil, I encourage you to read it here.)

What's true about pencils is true about virtually all of civilization, including most of the thoughts and beliefs we carry with us. We each have a tiny area of direct experience and expertise, but beyond that we merely function because we tap into the knowledge and wisdom of a greater whole as we rely on the expertise of others to carry us through life. We are not fully autonomous individuals; we are wholly dependent on being plugged into a much larger functional herd. Read the rest of this story and watch his video as well. here:

In Part One — Why Western Civilization Lost Its Mind — I explored the psychological pressures that are pushing society into dysfunction and chaos as all the civilizing forces that keep our feral human nature in check begin to break down. Elon Musk loves a good fight, and the Tesla Pi Phone might be his knockout punch to Big Tech. Rumored to offer Starlink internet and a censorship-free platform, it could disrupt the iPhone-Android duopoly. X users are abuzz, dreaming of a phone that's as bold as Musk himself.

Picture this: a device that charges via solar panels, controls your Tesla, and maybe even mines Dogecoin. TechRadar notes no official word from Tesla, but the speculation paints a picture of Musk's empire in your pocket. It's not just a phone—it's a power move.

Musk's stance? "No phone unless forced," he told a 2024 crowd. The force would be app store tyranny, and if it comes, he's ready. The Tesla Pi looms as a secret weapon, primed to strike when least expected. Read more here:

In other Musk news:

His AI company, "xAI", has just acquired "X" (formerly Twitter) in a $33 billion deal.

On the surface, it looks like just another corporate shuffle. But in reality, Musk may have just outmaneuvered the entire AI industry.

Here's why this changes everything:

- X is valued at $33 billion
- xAI is now worth a staggering $80 billion
- The deal is an all-stock transaction, excluding $12 billion in X's debt

At first glance, it seems like Musk took a loss—after all, he originally paid $44 billion for Twitter. But this move isn't about social media.

It's about something far more valuable: data.

The Real Reason Musk Bought Twitter

Back in 2022, people were confused. Why would the world's richest man, known for building rockets and electric cars, want a struggling social media platform? Read the rest of Josh Rincon's post here:

Murfitt Interview on Citizen-Initiated Referendum Petition to Exit WHO

An interview with Kirsten Murfitt by Michael Avenell following her presentation at the Rock The Vote NZ meeting The Citizen-Initiated Referendum Petition to Exit the WHO. The WHO has faced criticism for its handling of major health crises, including allegations of a lack of transparency, conflicts of interest, and prioritising political considerations over scientific evidence. Concerns have also been raised about its “one-size-fits-all” approach, which may not always align with New Zealand’s unique needs and priorities. Keeping A Sense of Humour Perspective

Tragic: Doomsday Prepper
Dies Before The World
Ends

AVANT PRAIRIE, TX — In an ironic twist of fate, family members of a local doomsday prepper announced that he had died before the world ended.

Hank Klepper, a longtime believer that the United States would someday be invaded by China and everyone would be forced to eat rice, was found dead of a heart attack during a wellness check after he failed to accept a DoorDash delivery.
