From the Editor: I turn 68 today, and I've had fifty-eight years to assimilate the "Alternative Narrative". My uncle, who was a career army 4-star general in the Pentagon started my family and me on the "government's backstory" when I was 10 years old. And he would know, he was in military intelligence. The more I learned, sometimes I thought I was crazy. Certainly friends thought so when I shared what I knew. My wife thought I was crazy when we first met. We stood next to the hole where the Twin Towers used to be and I told her it was an inside job. She thought I was crazy until she read up on it and saw the video "Architects for 911 Truth". She's now drinking from a firehose. We all are. Eckhart Tolle was once asked, "Are things getting better or worse in our world?" His answer was, "Both." So let's keep up the good work, and spread what's good, however that looks in your life.

Countdown to Commission's Final Word on Covid Jab and Mandates "Lessons Learned"

From: NZDSOS

In just under a week, the Royal Commission of Inquiry will release its Phase 2 report on the covid-19 vaccination programme.

This is the moment many of us have been waiting for. The question on everyone's mind: will the report reflect the evidence presented or will it fall short of what New Zealanders deserve?

NZDSOS presented hundreds of pages of evidence to the Commission covering vaccine safety, pharmacovigilance failures, informed consent violations, and thousands of excess deaths that followed the rollout. Our doctors gave their evidence and our community showed up with their own information and experiences.

In the past week alone, your sharing of personal stories from the Truth Project has reached over 200,000 additional views on Facebook, with thousands more engaging on X. Read the whole story here.

Government Declines To Release The Pfizer/Biontech Contract

From: Kirsten Murfitt on X

Despite your taxpayer dollars paying for a vaccine that did not stop the spread of the virus (it hadn't even been tested for that basic benefit) and that caused harm, including death, the current government has declined to release the Pfizer/BioNTech contract under the Official Information Act 1982.

Pfizer has paid billions in fines for false claims, kickbacks and corrupt practices to date. However, the 2026 government continues to put Big Pharma's interests before transparency and accountability to the taxpayers.

What do you think? Link to the decision below. See Kirsten's post here.

Doctor Found Guilty of Misconduct Over Ivermectin Prescribing

The Health Practitioners Disciplinary Tribunal concluded a two-day hearing in Nelson on Tuesday, finding Dr Caroline Mary Wheeler guilty of professional misconduct after prescribing ivermectin for COVID in 2021 and 2022.

They found the GP's conduct amounted to malpractice and brought discredit to the profession.

The disciplinary charge was brought by the Professional Conduct Committee.

The tribunal found Wheeler prescribed ivermectin in circumstances where it was not clinically appropriate for treating or preventing COVID. Read the story here.

NZ Police Can't Have it Both Ways

Police state that safety data sheets for the drug wipe device do not exist. Police also instruct staff to discard parts of the device into a "biohazard waste" container.

Both statements cannot be true at the same time.

If a device requires biohazard disposal, then hazards exist.

If hazards exist, then HSWA requires safety data sheets, risk assessments, hazard registers, and WorkSafe consultation.

Police have provided none of these.

Trump's Return Will Force NZ To Confront Its Systemic Decline

By: Reuben Steff, Associate Professor at Mendel University, Czech Republic. He is author of New Zealand's Geopolitics and the US-China Competition.

OPINION: When Donald Trump returned to the White House last year, the consequences did not simply up-end US politics or accelerate a post-liberal counter-revolution. They reverberated globally, unsettling allies and competitors alike. For New Zealand, Trump's presidency sets the stage for a paradoxical political year in 2026, one in which ideological fear-mongering collides with real geopolitical stakes.

An uncomfortable truth for New Zealand is that while Trump's policies have certainly caused major problems, their disproportionate effects on this country are the result of pre-existing domestic failures rather than American actions alone. Read the article here.

The Promises Didn't Break - The Leverage Did

How public assurances quietly lose their force once control leaves public hands - "Illusion of Consent" Series

This is the part of the story every council (and community members) needs to read carefully, not because Tauranga did something unusual, but because it did something familiar.

It sold a public asset, giving assurances it was the right decision, and people continued to engage with council in good faith... And then, the power to deliver those assurances disappeared.

What followed wasn't a dramatic change; in fact, you wouldn't even have noticed because everything seemed to be following a process. Except something DID change.... Leverage.

Once control left public hands, those promises lost their force. Read more here.

A Convergence of Witness - How NZers Preserved a History That Power Refused to Record

What has unfolded in New Zealand since 2020 is not coincidence nor the product of isolated dissenters finding one another by chance. It is better understood as a convergence.

Individually and independently, ordinary New Zealanders from every sector of society, across the full breadth of the nation's cultural and social life, began to act. Filmmakers, writers, doctors, nurses, policemen, military personnel, data specialists, parents, tradespeople, business owners and workers from all walks of life each arrived at the same quiet yet persistent conviction: something was not right. No central authority summoned them. No hierarchy directed them. Each responded according to conscience, lived experience, and what many would describe as God given gifts of discernment, creativity, and courage. Read more here.

We're Pushing Russia & Iran to Nuclear War

Editor's Note: Martin Armstrong is an American economic forecaster known for developing the Economic Confidence Model called Socrates. This system is designed to analyze global economic cycles and has been utilized for making economic forecasts and investment strategies. He served 11 years in prison because he wouldn't sell the computer model to the CIA. He has quite a track record, and here's his latest report:

Martin Armstrong: "When governments get to be desperate, that's when it's the most dangerous. With all the protests in Iran, the government will always need an external enemy. If they don't find one, then people pick up the pitchforks and go after the government's leaders. It's actually a brilliant strategy. How does this function? It solidifies power. Freedom of Speech and Staunch Journalists

Freedom of speech has long been a defining principle of the United States. Yet in recent years, that principle was tested when a group of seasoned, dedicated American journalists found themselves sidelined not for lack of professionalism or integrity but because their reporting came from an outlet disfavored in Washington.

In The American Silence, this episode of Perspective examines that moment, the professional and personal trials that followed, and the determination it took to continue practicing journalism in the face of unprecedented pressure. More importantly, it tells the story of resilience, of journalists who refused to abandon their craft or their commitment to informing the public. Host Scottie Nell Hughes is joined by veteran journalists and television personalities Ben Swann, Rick Sanchez, and Manila Chan for a candid discussion on free expression, media accountability, and what it means to stand by core American freedoms. This is a timely and compelling conversation for viewers who value independent thought, rigorous journalism, and the enduring importance of the First Amendment. Watch here.

Trump Just Declared Chemical Warfare On The American People

Trump just declared, "glyphosate-based herbicides are a cornerstone of this Nation's agricultural productivity and rural economy." And he's declaring glyphosate weedkiller to be a federally-protected critical resources.

This is insanity. He is now pushing the mass poisoning of American food crops and groceries with cancer-causing deadly weedkiller chemicals that will be sprayed all over the food crops.

Trump just declared chemical warfare on the American people. It's all here in black and white: Read the article and watch here. But As Kirsten Murfitt said on X, "Looks like Trump missed the memo":

Bayer proposes $7.2 billion settlement to resolve Roundup weedkiller cases. See that story here.

Editor's Note: Of course, Roundup and other glyphosate products have been on New Zealand's shelves for years, and not even in a restricted shelving section (such as spray paints are). It's mind-bending that this stuff is allowed to be distributed like is a benign chemical. It's not.

Ghislaine Maxwell Invited to Secret "Shadow Commission on 9/11"

There's a huge story in the Epstein files that warrants a closer look. In fact, almost every newsroom should be looking into this... but they don't have the permission space to, so they aren't touching it.

There's an email inviting Ghislaine Maxwell to a secret "Shadow Commission on 9/11" and another one, dated one week after 9/11 asking her: "Where is the real pilot?"

Any reasonable journalist would be asking what this means, especially with Maxwell and Epstein's ties to intelligence. What did she know? Also, many intelligent and credentialed folks for over 2 decades have pointed out the MASSIVE problems with the official 9/11 story, anyone... anyone who's reasonable would see a huge headline here. Tucker Carlson Detained in Israel

Journalist "dragged into interrogation room" as explosive interview sparks diplomatic firestorm

By: Phillip Nieto, The Daily Mail

Conservative podcasting titan Tucker Carlson said he and his staff were detained in Israel on Wednesday following an interview with Donald Trump's ambassador to the country. The former Fox News host flew into Tel Aviv for a sit-down with Mike Huckabee, who challenged Carlson to speak to him directly following an online spat about the country's treatment of Christians.

Carlson, who also frequently criticizes Israel for its military actions in Gaza, took Huckabee up on his offer. But as critics and pro-Israel activists began piling on Carlson for purportedly not leaving the airport during his brief visit, he revealed that he was met with hostility in the

On Wednesday, U.S. Senator Rand Paul introduced federal legislation that would dismantle the long-standing liability protections shielding vaccine manufacturers from civil lawsuits in the United States. The bill, S.3853, if enacted, would amend federal law to remove legal protections that have insulated vaccine manufacturers from product-liability lawsuits since 1986. The 1986 Act was justified at the time as necessary to prevent vaccine market collapse amid rising lawsuits. S.3853 would directly amend the Public Health Service Act to eliminate those protections. In practical terms, vaccine manufacturers would operate under the same tort framework as other pharmaceutical companies whose products are not covered by statutory immunity. Historically, measures altering vaccine liability protections have faced resistance from Big Pharma and politicians, many of whom are funded by the medical industry. - More here.

The Federal Aviation Administration is issuing a new mandatory rule that requires all commercial airlines in the country to formally commit to merit-based hiring for pilots, according to a Feb. 13 statement from the Department of Transportation. Under the new mandate, all U.S. carriers must certify that the practice of airlines hiring based on race and sex has ended. "The American people don't care what their pilot looks like or their gender—they just care that they are [the] most qualified man or woman for the job." DOT Secretary Sean P. Duffy said. The action follows President Donald Trump's executive order on Ending Illegal Discrimination and Restoring Merit-Based Opportunity, and his presidential memorandum Keeping Americans Safe in Aviation, both issued on Jan. 21, 2025. - More here.

This week, the chief law enforcement officer of Texas broke rank and rebuked the Texas Medical Board for their actions against Dr Mary Bowden. The Texas Medical board issued a public reprimand against Dr. Bowden for attempting to give her patient ivermectin. Dr. Bowden was following a court order to provide her patient with the treatment. Texas Huguley Hospital defied the court order. The patient at the center of this, Deputy Sheriff Jason Jones, never received the ivermectin and did not survive. For the past four years, the Texas Medical Board, has pursued disciplinary action against Dr. Bowden. On February 13th, the state, represented by Attorney General Ken Paxton, refused to represent the medical board and asked the court to throw out the reprimand altogether. It's an unprecedented move, and a clear signal that a state agency that went after doctors during the pandemic is finally being held to account. - More here.

A bill working its way through the Utah state legislature would provide students the ability to opt out of certain homework assignments they have a moral objection to. Republican state Rep. Mike Peterson introduced HB204 after his daughter said her professor required her to write a letter to a local politician expressing support for pro-LGBT policies. "Sometimes a student gets put in a position where it violates their conscience. It goes against their own core beliefs. They're not comfortable with doing that assignment yet currently have really have no recourse," Petersen said. Peterson's "Higher Education Student Belief Accommodation" bill was pass in an 8-1 vote by the House Education Committee earlier this month. If signed into law by the state's governor, it would go into effect on July 1. - More here.

Dr. Jay Bhattacharya, the head of the National Institutes of Health, is becoming the new acting director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Bhattacharya will be the acting director until a permanent CDC director is nominated and confirmed. The NIH and CDC are both part of the Department of Health and Human Services, which is led by Health Secretary Robert F. Kennedy Jr. "Science demands continuous evaluation," Bhattacharya said at the time. "This decision commits NIH, CDC, and FDA to gold standard science, greater transparency, and ongoing reassessment as new data emerge." - More here.

California's Attorney General Rob Bonta has filed a complaint against the Trump administration Department of Education over its requirement that schools keep parents informed if their children identify as a gender other than their true sex. The DOE notified the state that several of its schools had been found to be non-compliant with the federal Family Educational Rights & Privacy Act, putting their federal funding at risk unless they adopt "pro-parental notification approaches." That Act states that no federal education dollars shall go to any educational entity "which has a policy of denying, or which effectively prevents, the parents of students the right to inspect and review the education records of their children." California stands to lose $4.9 billion in education assistance if the Trump action is allowed to stand. - More here.

Medicine/Health

The New York Times ran a story this week headlined, "Vaccine Makers Curtail Research and Cut Jobs." The sub-headline was: RFK's policies have "sent a chill through the entire industry." They claim that Moderna is pulling back on vaccine studies after Secretary Kennedy nixed all its mRNA grants. Moderna's stock has cratered more than 90% from its August 2021 peak—erasing roughly $180 billion in market value. The company laid off over 800 workers, lost $700 million in bird-flu contracts after the administration canceled them, and shelved vaccines for herpes, shingles, and chickenpox. Last week, the FDA refused to even review Moderna's mRNA flu vaccine. - More here.

A new study by the McCullough Foundation titled "Deaths Following MMR and MMRV Vaccination in the United States," examined reported deaths in VAERS following MMR and MMRV vaccination in the United States. They found: "When cumulative measles deaths since 1995 are compared with reported post-vaccination deaths, the ratio shows a 2,657% higher death count associated with the vaccine reports than with measles infection over the same timeframe. 60.9% of deaths occurred in children under age 2. Approximately 40% of deaths occurred within one week of injection. The majority of deaths occurred within two weeks of vaccination, demonstrating strong temporal clustering. 24% of deaths were classified as Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS). Frequently reported clinical presentations included cardiac arrest, seizures, and encephalitis." - More here.

The Supreme Court of Canada released a major decision this week in Taylor v. Canada, siding with the Canadian Constitution Foundation (CCF) and affirming that section 6 of the Charter protects a broad constitutional right to travel freely between provinces. The case arose after Nova Scotia resident Kimberley Taylor was denied entry into Newfoundland in 2020 to attend her mother's funeral due to Newfoundland's COVID-19 travel restrictions at the time. At the Supreme Court in April, the CCF argued that governments cannot simply disregard Canadians' right to move freely about their own country. Today, the Supreme Court rejected the Newfoundland government's claim that no general right to interprovincial movement exists, deciding that the Charter's mobility rights must be considered, even in times of crisis. Read the CCF's Press Release here.

The Canadian Constitution Foundation is calling on the City of Winnipeg to abandon a proposed bylaw that would prohibit most protests within 100 metres of schools, hospitals, and places of worship. In a letter to Mayor Scott Gillingham and City Council, CCF Counsel Alexander Surgenor warned that this bylaw would violate the Charter's protections for freedom of expression and peaceful assembly. By allowing labour picketing while banning other demonstrations, the bylaw would also be effectively allowing the government to decide which messages are acceptable in public spaces. With fines ranging from $500 to $5,000, peaceful Canadians would face steep penalties simply for speaking their minds. There are already laws to address harassment and intimidation, making this sweeping protest ban unnecessary and unconstitutional. Read the letter in full here.

The Supreme Court of Canada has annulled the results of the 2025 federal election in the Montreal-area riding of Terrebonne, where Liberal Tatiana Auguste had won by a single vote after a judicial recount. The decision follows a challenge by Bloc Québécois candidate Nathalie Sinclair-Desgagné, who argued that a voter's mail-in ballot was mishandled due to a postal code misprint, preventing it from being counted. Elections Canada admitted the error, which affected at least 40 special ballots, but a lower court had initially ruled the issue was mere "human error" and did not warrant a new election. The Supreme Court disagreed, emphasizing that the responsibility lay with Elections Canada and the need to protect public participation. A byelection will now be called for Terrebonne, a riding historically held by the Bloc.

Last month, Children's Health Defense filed a RICO suit against the American Academy of Pediatrics. In a 55-page complaint, the CHD outlines how the AAP — like the Tobacco Institute before it — has been defrauding Americans for decades by: Blocking studies on the cumulative effect of multiple vaccines on children's health. Falsely suggesting that a child could safely get "10,000 vaccines" at once. Engineering a system that supports Big Pharma by making vaccines the financial backbone of pediatric practices. Targeting and discrediting pediatricians who question vaccine safety. Colluding with the insurance industry to penalize pediatric practices that don't meet vaccination targets for high uptake. The declare: "Add it all up, and you've got an organization engaged in racketeering." For the first time in its history, the AAP is going to have to defend its actions in a court of law. - More here.

Bayer announced this week that its Monsanto chemical subsidiary has proposed a $7.25 billion settlement to resolve lawsuits by customers alleging that its Roundup weed killer product caused non-Hodgkin lymphoma. Bayer said in a statement that the agreement does not include any admission of liability or wrongdoing. Bayer has faced thousands of lawsuits linked to Roundup since it bought Monsanto in 2018 for $63 billion. In 2020, Bayer announced it would pay up to $10.9 billion to settle some 125,000 filed and unfiled claims. Roundup is still available for sale online and from other major retailers. Telling It Like It Is / Truth Bombs

On Sunday, February 8, 2026, Superbowl Sunday, Amazon ran a commercial for its Ring camera security system that exploited people's love of dogs to induce them to ignore the consequences of what Amazon was touting. It seems that trick did not work. Amazon's Ring camera commercial highlighted its "Search Party" feature and uploaded a photo of a lost dog that activated multiple other Amazon Ring cameras in the neighborhood that appeared to use AI programs to scan all dogs and identify the one that was lost. It showed how invasive the technology can be. Many people were quite shocked to learn that what they thought was merely their own personal security system now has the ability to link with countless other Ring cameras to form a neighborhood-wide (or city-wide, or state-wide) surveillance dragnet. The backlash became so severe that, just days later, Amazon — seeking to assuage public anger — announced the termination of a partnership between Ring and Flock Safety, a police surveillance tech company. The Amazon ad seems to have triggered a long-overdue spotlight on how the combination of ubiquitous cameras, AI, and rapidly advancing facial recognition software will render the term "privacy" little more than a quaint concept from the past. Many reacted negatively to the ad. "Online videos show people removing or destroying their cameras." - More here.

Rod Taylor, leader of the Christian Heritage Party, commented on the shooting in Tumbler Ridge: "This young man was raised in a home that rejected God's design. As is now well known, he ". . . identified as a woman." Gender dysphoria used to be treated as a mental illness, which it is. Today, many schools, police departments, medical professionals and social service workers embrace that form of mental illness as a legitimate lifestyle choice and go out of their way to facilitate the delusion, thus becoming partners in fantasy. Some have speculated, and perhaps with justification, that the police were reluctant to refuse to return his guns for fear of being accused of being "transphobic." If that is the case, it's more evidence that our whole society has chosen delusion. The other angle on this case is the complicity of teachers and doctors, under the tattered hubris of "human rights", to facilitate so-called "gender transition" especially that of minors. Much more needs to be said about the connection between "gender re-assignment", cross-sex hormones, mental illness and violence" - More here.

People's Party of Canada leader Maxime Bernier blasted radical "trans ideology" running amok in Canada, after a "transgender" man went on a shooting rampage, killing eight people. "Let's speak the truth that the establishment media refuses to acknowledge: The shooter was a trans-identified male, falsely described as female. He was lost in a delusion fueled by a radical ideology that contradicts basic biological realities." "How many more must die before we end this toxic ideology?" "Liberals, fake Conservatives and every member of Parliament have voted unanimously for Bill C-4 in 2021, which criminalizes parents and therapists who try to help minors with gender dysphoria accept who they are." "It's illegal to treat children for a mental disorder, but it's legal to encourage them to undergo 'gender affirming therapy' and mutilate their body with harmful drugs or surgeries." "We've let a cult take over our society, where even police cannot call a man a man. Our children are paying the ultimate price for this cowardice." - More here.

German MEP Tomasz Froelich from the Alternative for Germany reported that on Friday, the EU Parliament voted on an amendment to the resolution stating that "only biological women can become pregnant." The amendment was rejected with 200 votes in favor, 233 against, and 107 abstentions. Froelich called the European Parliament a "madhouse." - More here.

The release of the Jeffrey Epstein files has been treated by mainstream media as just another scandal, but Frank Wright argues they reveal something far more sinister: the actual architecture of modern power. “Epstein was not simply a criminal operating in the shadows. His connections spanned presidents, intelligence agencies, billionaires, royalty, and the highest corridors of academia and global finance. Wright contends these relationships were not incidental. They expose a ruling class sustained not by merit or transparency, but by leverage, compromise, and mutual protection. The question is not merely what Epstein did, but why so many powerful figures were intertwined with him, and why accountability has proven so elusive. The scandal is a window into the collapse of liberal democracy itself: a system no longer governed by moral principle but managed by elite networks insulated from public scrutiny. Media complicity, institutional silence, and the normalization of evil are not bugs, they are features of a structure built to protect itself. Ultimately, the political crisis cannot be separated from the spiritual one. The Epstein files are not an aberration. They are the logical end of a world that has abandoned truth.” - More here.
