Keeping a Sense of Humour Perspective

From the Editor: There is so much going on in the world coming at us from all points. Staying centered is essential and the lead piece in our international section was put there on purpose. Normally reporting on meditation is not a thing, there's nothing happening. But there is indeed. Although it's pretty hectic out there, there's lots to be grateful for, not to mention all the good people, as reported here, that are doing amazing work. And don't forget to see our humour section at the end.

A New Membership Drive
Sign Up Today

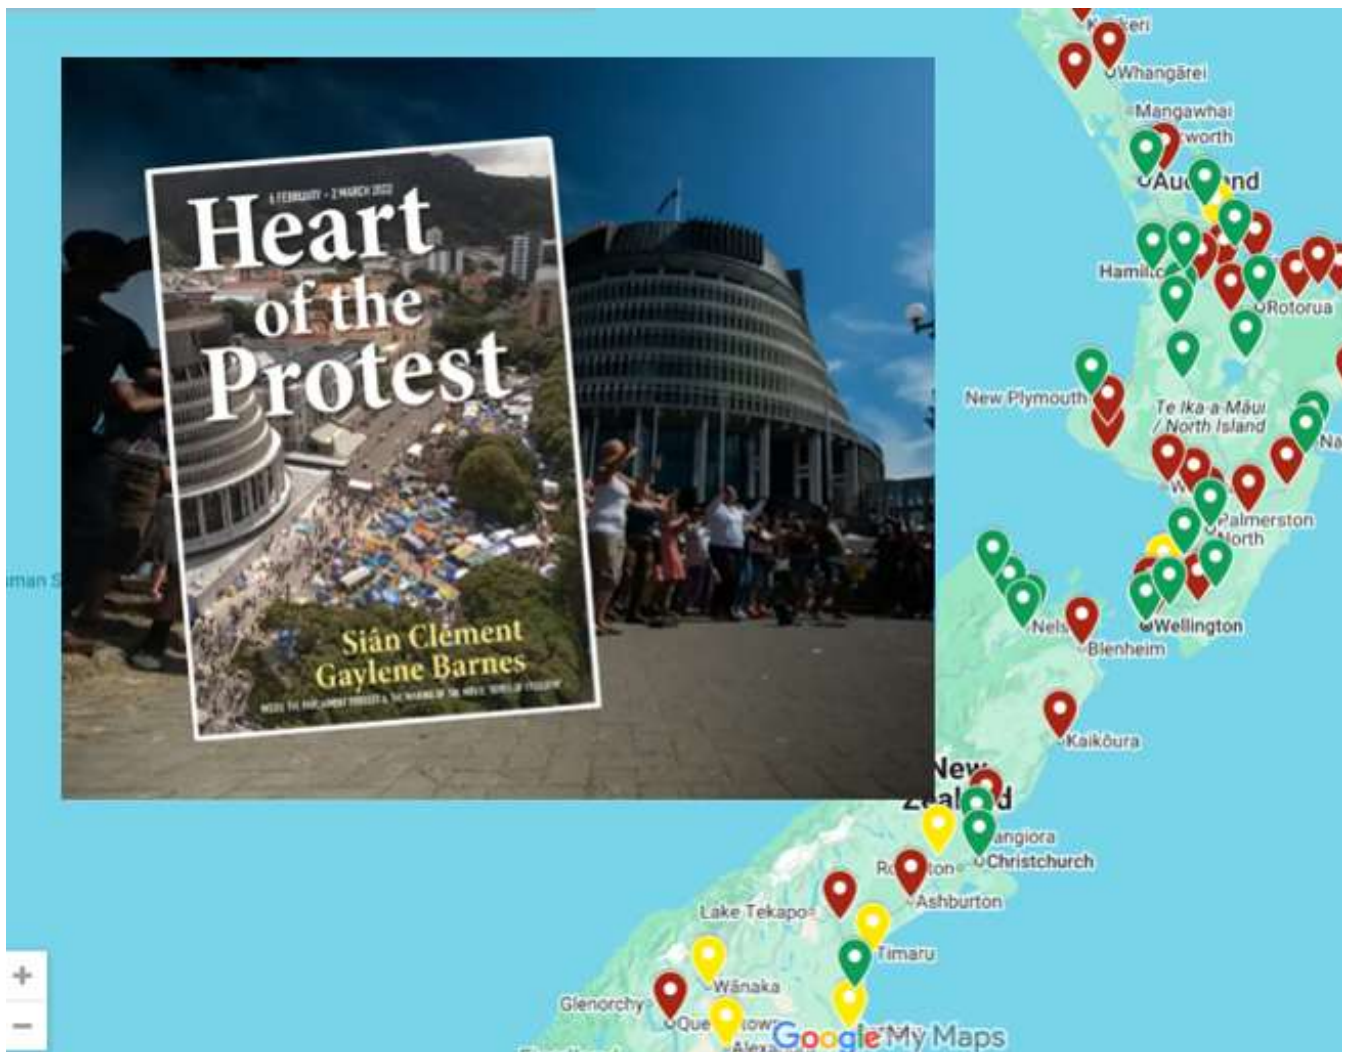

From: Fluoride Free New Zealand (FFNZ)

Fluoride Free New Zealand (FFNZ) is undertaking a membership drive. This is in response to a change to the Societies Act 2022 that requires incorporated societies to maintain a list of at least 10 members.

Up until now, FFFNZ has only kept a list of subscribers to its newsletter. They are now asking everyone who supports a fluoridation free New Zealand, to fill in this membership form and make a financial commitment of $5 for the year.

Having hundreds of paid members shows decision makers around the country that there is strong opposition to fluoridation. You can sign on here.

Request This Book at Your Local Library and Bookstore

Siân Clément, Co-Author of Heart of the Protest, has created a map of which libraries have the book in stock. As you can see by the red dots, there are a few holes. If Kiwis click on their local library on the map and if it's red or yellow, click on the map pin and the email address will appear, and you can request this important book. For example, "We would love to see Heart of the Protest on the shelves in our library. This is an important piece of history" or something of that nature. See our recent past newsletters for links to purchase this book.

Here's more from Co-Author Siân Clément

Calling all NZ Rising Supporters!

You helped make River of Freedom #1 at the NZ box office. Now we need your people power again.

Heart of the Protest — the book that tells the true story of Convoy 2022 NZ and the Parliament occupation — is out now, and we need your help getting it into libraries and bookshops across the country.

Two ways you can help now:

Libraries — Check our map to see if your local library already stocks it. If it doesn't, perhaps you could request it - the email addresses are provided. It's easy, and it works. We've already seen it make a real difference.

See the library map here.

Bookshops — We also have a stockist map showing where the book is currently available to buy in person. See a gap in your area? Northland, East Coast, Wellington City for example.

Please ask your local bookshop to stock it. This actually works. Bookshop map here.

These are the stories the mainstream media didn't want to tell. The voices they tried to silence. Help us make sure they are heard — in every library and every bookshop in Aotearoa.

Thank you so much

NZ Filmmaker Heads to Tokyo for Global Health Freedom Conference

Gaylene Barnes to Join Del Bigtree and Dr Tina Peers at the Zero Spike Conference

Tokyo - 20–21 June 2026

River of Freedom documentary director, Heart of the Protest co-author and The Tribute web series creator Gaylene Barnes is heading to Tokyo this month for the Zero Spike Conference — a landmark two-day event exploring health, recovery and conversations governments don't want to have.

Barnes will appear alongside Del Bigtree, Emmy Award-winning journalist, filmmaker and host of The HighWire, and Dr Tina Peers, a British physician with over 40 years in medicine who has become one of the world's leading voices on Long COVID, post-vaccine injury and the ZeroSpike project.

The conference, held 20–21 June at Seiryō Hall in central Tokyo, will feature the Japanese premiere of two films: An Inconvenient Study, directed by Del Bigtree, and Why Can't We Talk About This? by Dean Rainey, followed by live discussions.

Barnes' feature documentary River of Freedom reached number one at the New Zealand box office in 2023, and her recently self-published book Heart of the Protest (co-authored with Siân Clement) sold over 1,500 copies within weeks, despite little media coverage. She has also recently released a web series called The Tribute featuring in-depth vaccine injury stories.

"The conversations happening in Tokyo are the same ones New Zealanders have been having in their homes and communities since 2021," says Barnes. "Real people. Real health impacts. Real questions about what was done and what comes next. It's both humbling and important to be part of this global exchange."

Barnes' participation as a New Zealander reflects the increasingly international nature of the health freedom conversation, and underscores how the themes at the core of Heart of the Protest resonate well beyond New Zealand shores. The book, which documents the experiences of the thousands who gathered at Parliament in 2022, has been praised for restoring humanity to one of the country's most misrepresented moments.

The invitation reflects a broadening international recognition of Barnes' work following an exhibition of her sacred art, alongside other contemporary artists in Mandorla, at the Abbaye de Maubuisson in Saint-Ouen-l'Aumône, Val-d'Oise, France.

Barnes will be travelling with Meagan McNamara who features in and worked behind the scenes on both River of Freedom and Heart of the Protest. Learn more about the conference here. Learn more about the film River of Freedom here, and the book here.

By: Randall Richards

My nickname for the New World Grocery Store is "NWO", "New World Order". Between their licence plate readers in the carpark, and their facial scanners in the self-check-out, the name seems fitting. Lately, they've been pushing their new discount card, "Club+". Until now, I've been using a self-laminated paper "tourist version" so I'm not personally tracked.

With the introduction of the "new and improved" card, I thought my days of "club savings" were over. Fear not, I've figured a work-around, and thought I'd share the fun.

First, create a non-gmail email account such as the excellent and private proton.me email account. But you're not done yet. NWO will require a cell/mob phone number be entered on their online form. Then go to pvapins.com to get a free temporary mobile number that can receive a text and confirmation code via your computer. (NWO didn't request a code from me though.) If required, you can then feed that code back to the beast, otherwise having the number lets you fill in that field without using your own number.

Note that'll you'll need a secondary established email account to verify your new Protonmail account in order to receive verification codes etc, But I feel that's enough of a firewall and distance between NWO and me. Then, pick a fun first and last name, username, and made-up birthdate, and tick: "rather not say" on the gender question. I used Jacques Merde as my name and email address, ie:, jmerde@..... It's French for "Jack Shit"

Another point, if you want a plastic card sent to you, simply use a friend's business address, or similar, to have it mailed to them for you. Just alert them that an envelope is coming addressed to Jacques Merde.

So every time the checkout person says "Thank you Mr Merde", it'll remind me of my small effort to sidestep their tracking. Have fun!

Simon Watts Promised to 'Fix' Local Government But He's Is About To Make It Even Worse

From: Taxpayers' Union via email

We've uncovered major fishhooks buried deep inside Simon Watts' "Local Government (Systems Improvement) Bill" currently before Parliament and in the last stages.

It's not a politically sexy issue, and it's technical. But if we are to fix local government, it's essential.

The Bill was sold as a reform to "strengthen local democracy" – reining in overmighty council bureaucracies and restoring power to elected councillors.

But in reality, the Bill does the exact opposite.

It hands more power to unelected council bureaucrats by making the council Chief Executives the gatekeepers of information.

That means the very officials councillors are supposed to oversee can decide what elected representatives are allowed to see.

It is a breathtaking inversion of democracy.

Background

For more than a decade, the Taxpayers' Union has argued that we cannot expect our local councils to be effectively governed when mayors and councillors don't have full rights to access information akin to company directors.

No company director would tolerate a CEO refusing to answer questions on the basis of "commercial sensitivity" or an excuse that it's "an operational matter".

But that is precisely the excuses being used every day to undermine local councillors (and even Mayors) from doing their jobs.

We thought we'd won the issue! The Govt said it would be strengthening councillors' rights to get information from officials

Despite 12 years of our efforts, successive Governments/Local Government Ministers have ignored the issue of council bureaucrats blocking elected officials from asking awkward questions.

Nearly every month, we are approached by councillors asking for help to get basic information out of their own councils!

But former Local Government Minister Simeon Brown really got it. Soon after the Luxon Government was elected, Simeon Brown promised us he'd fix the law and adopt our recommendations.

But (to put it simply) the more recent Minister, Simon Watts, has screwed it up.

This morning, I joined Michael Laws (who serves on the Otago Regional Council and fully understands the issue) on The Platform.

Ombudsman Complaint Filed After Police Reject OIA Request On Roadside Drug Testing

Version as at 5 April 2025

Official Information Act 1982

Public Act 1982 No 156
Date of assent 17 December 1982
Commencement see section 1

From: The Daily Telegraph

A formal complaint with the Office of the Ombudsman has been lodged after Police refused an Official Information Act (OIA) request relating to the country's new roadside oral-fluid drug testing regime, describing the request as "vexatious."

Nigel Gray said he had spent several months submitting a series of OIA requests seeking information about the legal authority, scientific validation, safety measures, training, procedures, thresholds and public rights associated with the testing programme. While Police did not refuse the requests on substantive grounds, Gray said he was surprised by the reasoning used to reject his latest application. Read the full story here.

A new $3.5 billion data centre that will be built near Invercargill is being touted as the country’s first “artificial intelligence factory”, but a tech expert says New Zealand is currently “AI illiterate” and without urgent action, the country’s economic growth is at stake. Datagrid New Zealand has received resource consent for the 78,000 square-metre data centre, which will be built in Makarewa, north of Invercargill. The company was founded by

Rémi Galasso and Malcolm Dick in 2021. The Invercargill facility is not the first large scale data centre in New Zealand. Outrageous Gaslighting

"Loose Immigration Is A Disaster And I'm Not Having It"

From: "Suit and Tie", on X
 Labour's health spokesperson Aysha Verrall has boasted that "we ran one of the best public information programs on myocarditis in the world."

 Winston Peters from Field Days: "It's not a FTA, that Indian deal is an immigration deal, have a look at Ireland and the UK, loose immigration is a disaster and i'm not having it"

Her extraordinary claim is completely unsupported by any credible evidence, contradicted by official records, repeated implementation failures, and the total lack of independent scrutiny or benchmarking of her claim.

But what makes Verrall's statement truly repugnant is that the known risks of myocarditis to teenagers appear to have been deliberately withheld from the public while the government aggressively rammed through its "Two Shots for Summer" campaign and pushed mass vaccination in schools. NZ, We Have A Problem Speech Control Meets Mass Immigration

From: Sovereign NZ via email
 Our two largest parties have quietly converged on a significant expansion of state power over online expression - and they have done so without a public mandate, without the safeguards their own rules require.
 Consider how the policy evolved. Catherine Wedd's original member's bill was 3 pages and did one thing: require platforms to take reasonable steps to keep under-16s off their services, with civil penalties for failure. What emerged from the select committee was far larger - a blueprint for a UK-style internet regulator with subjective content discretion, and powers over recommendation algorithms, and the prospect of restrictions on VPNs, alongside other recommendations no submitter had been consulted on. Manufactured Consensus

From Tulsi Gabbard on Facebook

Today, on my final day as Director of National Intelligence, I'm releasing never-before-seen communications and documents exposing how Dr. Fauci provided millions in US taxpayer dollars to fund dangerous gain-of-function research at the Wuhan lab, worked with politicized elements within the Intelligence Community to suppress the truth about his actions and hide the virus' lab-leak origins, and lied to Congress while under oath in 2024. It's time you know the truth. Watch her statment here. And more on this from Dr. Robert Malone, below.

By: Dr. Robert Malone

New Evidence Fauci Manipulated Intelligence and Lied to Congress

The controversy can be summarized in a single line: Fauci funded the Wuhan research, then helped steer the intelligence that absolved it. What the declassified documents add is the mechanism. They show a man who occupied multiple positions of authority simultaneously, who placed trusted associates inside the intelligence review process, and who then helped present the resulting conclusions to the public as independent scientific judgment. They show sworn testimony that contradicts the record, in fact documenting that Fauci lied under oath. And they show what was done to the analysts who refused to go along. Read more here.

Alberta Premier Danielle Smith says First Nations chiefs need to “check themselves,” in response to calls for her to be investigated for treason over the province’s fall referendum question on separatism. “I think it’s disgraceful that any government that wants to be taken seriously would level the charges that serious against another government,” Smith told reporters in Calgary on Thursday. “I’ve had my differences with the federal government, but I have never used language like that.” The Assembly of Treaty Chiefs in Alberta unanimously voted to request the RCMP to investigate whether the province’s fall referendum amounts to criminal treason by the premier and her United Conservative Party. The RCMP confirmed that they are aware of the request but have yet to release an official response. “I would ask the treaty chiefs to check themselves, because we have a very collaborative relationship between our government and our ministers,” Smith said, adding that “this kind of overwrought language has no place in a democracy.” - <https://open.substack.com/pub/thecountersignal/p/smith-tells-first-nations-chiefs>

The Task Force to End Liberal Racism will take stock of how diversity and inclusion policies are being applied across federal programs and public-sector institutions. On Monday, HHS Secretary Robert F. Miller. The now censored article found that 2,605 infant deaths (under age one) were reported to VAERS within 60 days of vaccination: 58% of cases were reported within 24 hours of vaccination while a supermajority (over 78%) of cases were reported within a week of vaccination. The uncensored article can still be read at the National Library of Medicine. Kennedy wrote – “Americans have a right to know why scientific papers are removed, who made those decisions, what evidence supported them, and whether the same standards are applied consistently. We will restore trust in public health by insisting on transparency, accountability, and open scientific inquiry—not by asking the public to accept decisions behind closed doors.” In his article, Miller states that otherwise unexplained infant deaths after vaccination are often labeled as Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS), suffocation, or unknown causes. He argues that such sloppy labeling helps to conceal links between vaccines and infant deaths. -

An Ottawa elementary school has pulled the plug on a scheduled drag queen storytime, saying the event may not align with Ontario's curriculum, despite having hosted similar programming in the past. According to a letter sent to parents at Mutchmor Public School, the June 19 event was quietly cancelled as questions mount over parental pushback and how far equity and inclusion initiatives should go inside classrooms. The school said the event was intended to promote literacy and themes of equity, diversity and inclusion, but administrators ultimately decided those themes would instead be incorporated into regular classroom activities aligned with curriculum expectations. - <https://www.junonews.com/p/is-this-the-end-of-drag-queen-storytime>

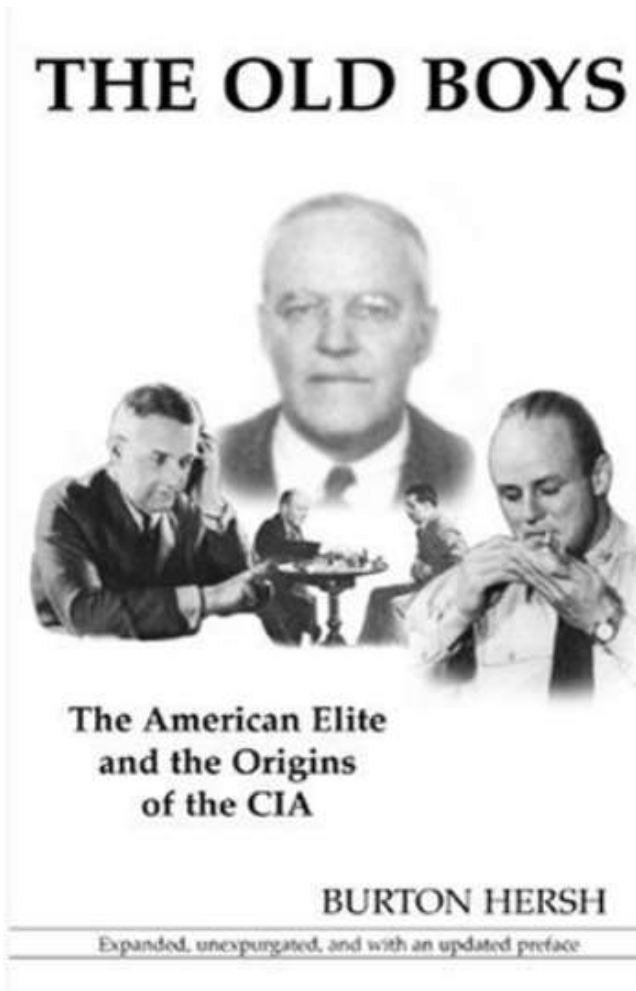

Telling It Like It Is / Truth Bombs

A message from the JCCF: Bill C-34, the Safe Social Media Act, is another example of the federal government's ambition to censor the internet and undermine the privacy of all Canadians. The government claims that Bill C-34 will protect children from harmful online content, prevent the victimization of children and intimate partners, and ensure that tech companies behave responsibly. Canadians share these goals. But Bill C-34 goes far beyond these objectives to implement a social media ban for minors, censor AI companies and their users, and grant the federal Cabinet broad powers to regulate the internet in the future. This legislation will undermine parents' right and responsibility to determine social media boundaries for their own children. It will force all Canadians to surrender private data to access social media. It will create financial incentives for AI companies to disclose private, law-abiding conversations to police. It will empower the government to reshape the internet without parliamentary oversight. - <https://www.jccf.ca/stop-bill-c-34-the-so-called-safe-social-media-act/>

A new Senate report is calling for periodic independent reviews of CBC/Radio-Canada's news content to assess its "fairness and balance." The recommendation is one of seven in the June 17 report released by the Senate Standing Committee on Transport and Communications after hearing from more than 60 academics, journalists, media companies, community groups, and CBC employees in 2024 and 2025. Committee chair Senator David Wells said independent reviews could help boost public confidence in CBC/Radio-Canada news at a time when trust in the media is falling. "It's well known that public trust in the media is declining," Wells said at a June 17 press conference in Ottawa. The report says that witnesses raised concerns that CBC's news coverage may be perceived as politically or ideologically biased. One commenter posted: "I find it amusing that one dinosaur institution is calling for the review of another institution to ascertain bias. Maybe get rid of both and there'd be no need to waste money on a review." Another post said: "I spit coffee on the keyboard when I read this. A review of CBC bias by a liberal stacked senate is like sending starving coyotes into a hen house to grade the eggs. Nothing of substance will come of this." - <https://www.theepochtimes.com/world/senate-report-calls-for-independent-review-of-cbc-news-to-assess-balance-6049287>

Conspiracy Theories

Bill Bailey On Crazy Conspiracy Theories & Scientology Jokes

It turns out that a joke about "how many scientologists does it take to change a light bulb?" doesn't play well at a film awards show. Watch this fairly good clip here.

How many conspiracy theorists does it take to change a light bulb?

The real question is that who broke the light bulb and why are they keeping us in the dark?
