From the Editor: A strong, independent voice depends on the support of its readers. In this issue, we're sharing how we're preparing to secure the future of NZ Rising's newsletter and how you can help us continue bringing important stories to light. See the story below.
Also, there seems to be a lot of good news in this issue, as well as, of course, some stories that are cause for concern. A few years ago I wrote a song entitled "We Are Many, They Are Few" asa reminder we can overcome tyrannical leadership. Lastly, A special thanks to the individuals, and NZR member organisations, who are standing strong in the face of the overreaching power structures in our society. You know who you are, and one in particular is mentioned below.

Help Keep NZ Rising's Voice Strong

By: Randall Richards

With the guidance of the NZ Rising Steering Committee, we'll soon be launching a fundraising campaign to help secure the future of our newsletter and ensure that the NZ Rising editorial team can continue doing what matters: bringing important stories to light.

At a time when independent voices and open discussion are more important than ever, we believe people deserve access to information that challenges the status quo, holds those in power to account, and shines a light on developments that affect our lives. From news and initiatives within NZ Rising member organisations to concerns about government overreach and significant events shaping New Zealand and the wider world, our goal is to keep readers informed, engaged and connected.

But keeping this voice alive takes commitment and support. Your contribution can help us continue gathering, curating and sharing the stories that might otherwise go unheard. Every donation, whatever its size, will help strengthen our ability to keep readers informed and our newsletter going.

We hope you'll consider being part of this effort. We'll share details in upcoming issues about how you can contribute. Together, we can help ensure that NZ Rising continues to inform, question and give voice to the issues that matter.

Puberty Blocker Restrictions For Gender-Diverse Youth Overturned By High Court

Hundreds of people marched on Parliament in 2025 to protest against moves to change how puberty blockers are prescribed in gender affirming care. Samuel Rillstone

From: RNZ, sent from RCR via email.
The High Court has ruled regulations banning new prescriptions of puberty blockers for young people with gender dysphoria were unlawful. In 2025, the Government sought to introduce regulations stopping doctors from making new prescriptions of puberty blockers for children and adolescents with gender dysphoria or gender incongruence. The Ministry of Health undertook public consultation in 2024 on whether there should be additional safety measures for the prescribing of puberty blockers in young people with gender-related health needs. NZ To Become ‘ A Country Of Mostly Non-Europeans’

By Keith Rankin on Scoop, sent from RCR via email

What we can expect in the immediate future is continued immigration and emigration at persistently higher levels than took place before 2011. The transformation from Aotearoa being a Euro-centric nation to being an Asia-Pacific-focused country will probably only abate when Aotearoa New Zealand (the North Island in particular) becomes categorically a country of mostly non-Europeans. New Zealanders with full European ancestry will become as much 'ethnics' – to use that pejorative word – as any other New Zealanders. The two charts here show New Zealand's immigration and emigration for this century. While the data was collected monthly, these data are annual 'rolling averages". See Rankin's report here.

Each Decade, More Chronic Illness. Each Election, More Medicine

By Jodie Bruning, The Daily Telegraph

Why have RNZ and Stuff journalists broadly dismissed and/or criticised Make New Zealand Healthy without evaluating the merits of its policy proposals? They, their families and friends are more likely to be diagnosed with multiple conditions and take multiple medications at a younger age than your grandparents.

One diagnosis is often just the beginning. Chronic illnesses tend to cluster. This is multimorbidity: multiple chronic conditions affecting the same person, often interacting and compounding the burden of illness. Read more here.

Council Knew of Farmland Risks Before Approving Sludge Deal: Feds

Federated Farmers says newly released documents raise serious questions about a council's decision to dump urban wastewater sludge in rural Otago.
Documents released under the Official Information Act reveal Queenstown Lakes District Council knew the risks but chose to push ahead anyway.
Otago Federated Farmers president Anna Gillespie says farmers will feel hugely disrespected by how the council made the decision.
"What's very clear now is that Queenstown Lakes District Council (QLDC) knew spreading Wānaka's human wastewater sludge on farmland at Lauder would degrade the land. They also fully acknowledged the risk of reputational damage to the council – but the deal went ahead anyway." Read more here.

NZ's UN Pandemic Declaration Abstention 'Largely Symbolic'

From: Reality Check Radio
Voices for Freedom's head of legal Katie Ashby-Koppens says New Zealand's abstention from a UN pandemic declaration is largely symbolic, with the real issue being the WHO's Pandemic Agreement. She said the outstanding negotiations focus on sharing pathogens and pandemic-related products, arguing the agreement would undermine New Zealand's ability to make its own decisions. Ashby-Koppens said the UN declaration was "really inconsequential" compared with the agreement still being negotiated, with a number of African countries holding out over the pathogen-sharing arrangements. She also urged Kiwis living overseas to vote in the election and encouraged people to visit VoteSmart2026.nz to learn more about strategic voting and making their vote count. Listen/watch here.

A Landmark Civil Lawsuit in The Netherlands

From: thenetherlandscase.com

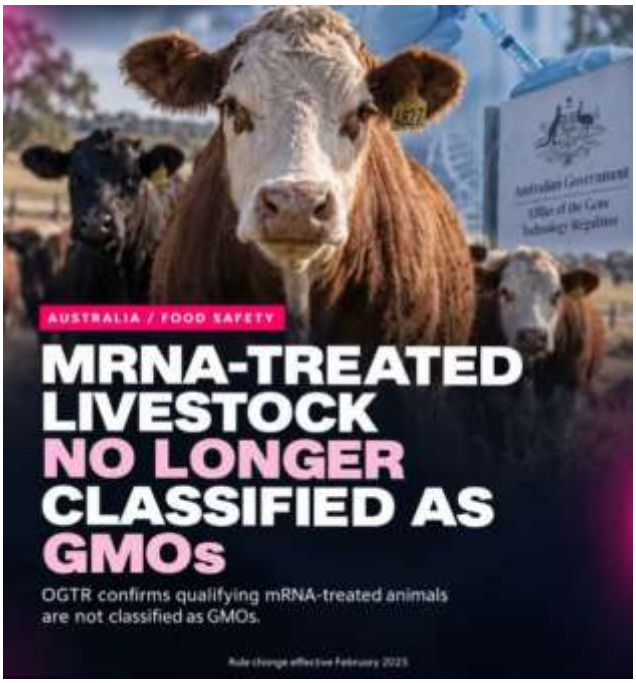

A definitive, historic legal proceeding marks an unprecedented confrontation over global pharmaceutical and institutional accountability.

The historic civil lawsuit in the Netherlands is brought by seven Pfizer “vaccine”-injured individuals, represented by attorney Peter W.H. Stassen, seeking individual accountability from global figures like Bill Gates, Albert Bourla and Mark Rutte, along with the State of The Netherlands and no fewer than thirteen high-ranking defendants from politics, business, media, and science.

This lawsuit marks an unprecedented confrontation between citizens and global institutions. While defendants cling to the official narrative of “safe and effective” mRNA injections, the plaintiffs’ case presents an uncompromising clash of hard facts substantiated by expert evidence. The divergence is so profound that the plaintiffs' pleadings formally characterise the rollout as the greatest genocide in history, putting the establishment’s preferred pandemic narrative directly on trial. Other coverage here, and the website here.

BREAKING: Attorney Peter W.H. Stassen receives a hero’s welcome outside the District Court of the Northern Netherlands following the substantive hearing on the merits which took place today. “They know we have crucial evidence that the whole Covid-19 narrative is fake.” Expert witnesses Sasha Latypova and Dr Joseph Sansone, as well as claimant Reggie Dijkstra offer their reflections of the day’s events. Watch their review here.

Big Tech Has Officially Turned Data Centers Into Human–Silicon Hybrid Monstrosities

By Nicolas Hulscher, MPH
A biological data centre containing 16 million living human neurons is now operational in Singapore, while Cortical Labs commercially sells biological computers worldwide.
These biological computers integrate millions of living human neurons with silicon chips, allowing the cells to process information, respond to electrical signals and adapt through learning. The neurons require built-in life-support systems that perform functions analogous to the heart, lungs and kidneys, circulating nutrients, regulating oxygen, and removing metabolic waste. In Singapore, a biological data center prototype containing an estimated 16 million living human neurons across 20 computing units is already operational. Read more here.

What Is Making People Near Data Centres Sick? And What Could Fix It?

By: A MIdwestern Doctor, Substack

The noise, infrasound and dirty electricity pouring out of data centres explain the backlash against them, and the same money driving the buildout could finally bring cheap, clean power to market. Communities next to data centres are reporting a cluster of health complaints that closely matches what electrically sensitive people have described for decades. A Bloomberg analysis of 770,000 home sensors suggests why: data centres inject enormous amounts of "dirty electricity" back onto the grid, and the worst power distortion in the country clusters within 20 miles of them. UN Says Agenda 2030 Has "Zero Chance" by 2030

By Rima E Laibow MD

The Destructocrats want us to believe that resistance is futile. Turns out they are much weaker than they want us to know. The time for decisive action is now. Later is too late. According to our Would-Be Masters (WBMs), we are supposed to believe that we are lost, that the battle is too big for us, that we have no strength and that we can only acquiesce to the new world as it crashes down on our lives. That belief, a carefully engineered collective depression, is useful for the WBMs but, like so much that they would have us believe (e.g., that COVID was the killer, that there WAS a pandemic and that there will be more and more of them unless we let the WBM take over every aspect of our lives, that the WBM are interested in our well-being and that they know what they are doing, that PCR tests can determine who has/had a disease, etc.), when carefully examined, it turns out to be wrong. Dead wrong. Read the full story here.

Learn About Orwell

Editor's Note: My son and I listened to "A Short History of" and we thought we'd share this fascinating episode on George Orwell. Best known for his books Animal Farm and Nineteen Eighty-Four, Orwell earned a reputation as chronicler and prophet of modern society. he exposed poverty and injustice, satirised the powerful and took up arms against fascism. Today, his name has become an adjective - 'Orwellian' - to express fears about totalitarian control. Listen to this insightful account here.

avalanche of joy, and a radical reminder of what all our striving is for. My daughter is three months old, and I am increasingly convinced she has an amazingly great sense of humor. I realize this might be a scientifically questionable claim. Perhaps somebody will tell me it's social smiling, emotional development, or some other neurological process. Fine. Whatever it is, it's GLORIOUS. It's amazing. It's refreshing. It's absolutely the best thing! And I have been studying the evidence very carefully. Lemme tell you about it….
