WHAT IS NEW ZEALAND RISING?

New Zealand Rising is an alliance of separate groups and individuals from all across New Zealand who believe in a better future. We are many different people with different views, however we all share a common vision for the future.
"We, the people, stand united for a New Zealand that is respectful, includes everyone, and is free of government overreach."
"Kia tūkotahi tātou ō Aotearoa, hei whakarangatira tātou i a tātou. Herea te Kāwanatanga, kia kore e pēhia te mana o te tāngata."

From the Editor: For those at or near the point of death, hospice volunteers never hear people say, "I wish I had more money in my bank account. What they say is "I wish I had worked a little less and played a little more." Money or status is never their last concern. This is a hospice moment, and Dr. Zach Bush puts forth that humanity is at a hospice moment. You can watch his interview below. It keeps things in perspective in what seems like a world gone mad. Also stay tuned in future issues with news on how you can help keep NZ Rising's Newsletter up and running. On behalf of the editorial team here, thanks for reading. NEWS FROM NZ RISING MEMBER ORGANISATIONS

MCNZ Missing in Action: Where Do You Turn When No One Will Engage?

By NZDSOS Media Team
As a group of doctors, many of us in NZDSOS have had concerns about the covid response since very early in 2020. We have tried individually and collectively to engage with authorities to get answers to important questions, in particular relating to harm that we realised was being done to the population of New Zealand.

Apart from a couple of inadequate responses early on, most attempts at communication have been ignored and the issues of concern remain unaddressed.
At Dr Shelton's recent HPDT hearing (where the charges related to his public speech) an important question was asked by the panel to the PCC experts: "What should Dr Shelton have done if he had concerns?" Read more here.

Comirnaty in 2021: Two Countries,

Two Different Regulatory Pathways

By NZDSOS Media Team
2021: NZ vs US Regulatory Approval
Comirnaty is a COVID-19 vaccine using mRNA technology
Let's be clear about what we are actually dealing with. The claim that the Comirnaty vaccine was "experimental" – during the period, coincidentally, in which evidence of cabinet wrong-doing in August 2021 may have gone on – turns on a simple factual question: what was the actual regulatory status of the product in New Zealand and the United States, and were those statuses equivalent? Red Remembrance Day 2026: Remembering, Standing Together and Looking Ahead

By Anna Petley, NZDSOS
On Saturday 14 November, New Zealanders gathered in communities across the country for the fifth annual Red Remembrance Day, a day of remembrance for those injured by the covid-19 experimental injections, those who lost loved ones, and those whose lives were profoundly affected by the Government's covid-19 response and vaccine mandates.

This year, Red Remembrance Day followed a busy period for NZDSOS, with Matt Shelton's HPDT tribunal, Hoody on a Roady tour and, to top it all off, the 2026 New Zealand Election. Yet, five years on, people are still turning up to remember this particularly dark day in our history. See the full article here.

Restore Public Consultation and Transparency To Telecommunications Tower Rules

From Randall Richards, NZR Rising Newsletter Editor
Petition request by Rachel Alexander

That the House of Representatives restore public consultation rights and reverse rules allowing 15-20m tall telecommunications towers on residential berms, require minimum setbacks from homes, compensate property value losses, require transparency and halt the rollout of 3,500 planned towers.

Petition reason

New Zealand's planning framework has removed from councils and local communities the right to consult on telecommunications infrastructure. Under the National Environmental Standards for Telecommunication Facilities, recent amendments allow 20m tall industrial towers just metres from houses, with no public consultation or resource consent. Foreign-owned telecommunications companies are rolling out 3,500 towers, while Kiwi homeowners are expecting property value losses. Closing date to have your say: 7th January, '27 Sign the petition here.

Switcheroo: Was the Pfizer Covid Vaccine Given to New Zealanders Actually Trialled?

By NZDSOS Media Team
Was the Pfizer product injected into New Zealanders actually tested in a clinical trial with published results?
It appears not.
During 2021 New Zealanders were repeatedly told that Pfizer's covid vaccine was "safe and effective." We weren't told the product being injected into the population was different from the one that Medsafe had assessed trial data for. (And even with that one, Medsafe could only conclude "the benefit risk balance … is not clear"!)
Process 1 and Process 2
Process 1 = clinical trial material produced by PCR
Process 2 = commercial material produced with DNA plasmids in bacteria
The mRNA for the clinical trial 'vaccine' was produced using polymerase chain reaction (PCR) technology. A DNA template was used to make multiple strands of mRNA by amplification.

Support Whistleblower Barry Young
Case Scheduled for February 2026

Judge Sainsbury has released a court date of 15th December, 2026 for Whistleblower Barry Young. If you'd like to support Young, show up at the courthouse in Wellington. The decision to determine whether he is actually a whistleblower in the eyes of the court will most likely be handed down on this day.

The official statement reads, "The Presiding Judge has directed that Mr Young be remanded on bail to the future callover date of 15 December 2026 at 2:15pm, to await the reserved decisions currently under His Honour Judge Sainsbury's purview." The Daily Telegraph NZ has a good write-up which you can read here.

Finally* - Some Additional NZ Pushback on Data Centres

Call to Halt Taranaki Data Centre Plan

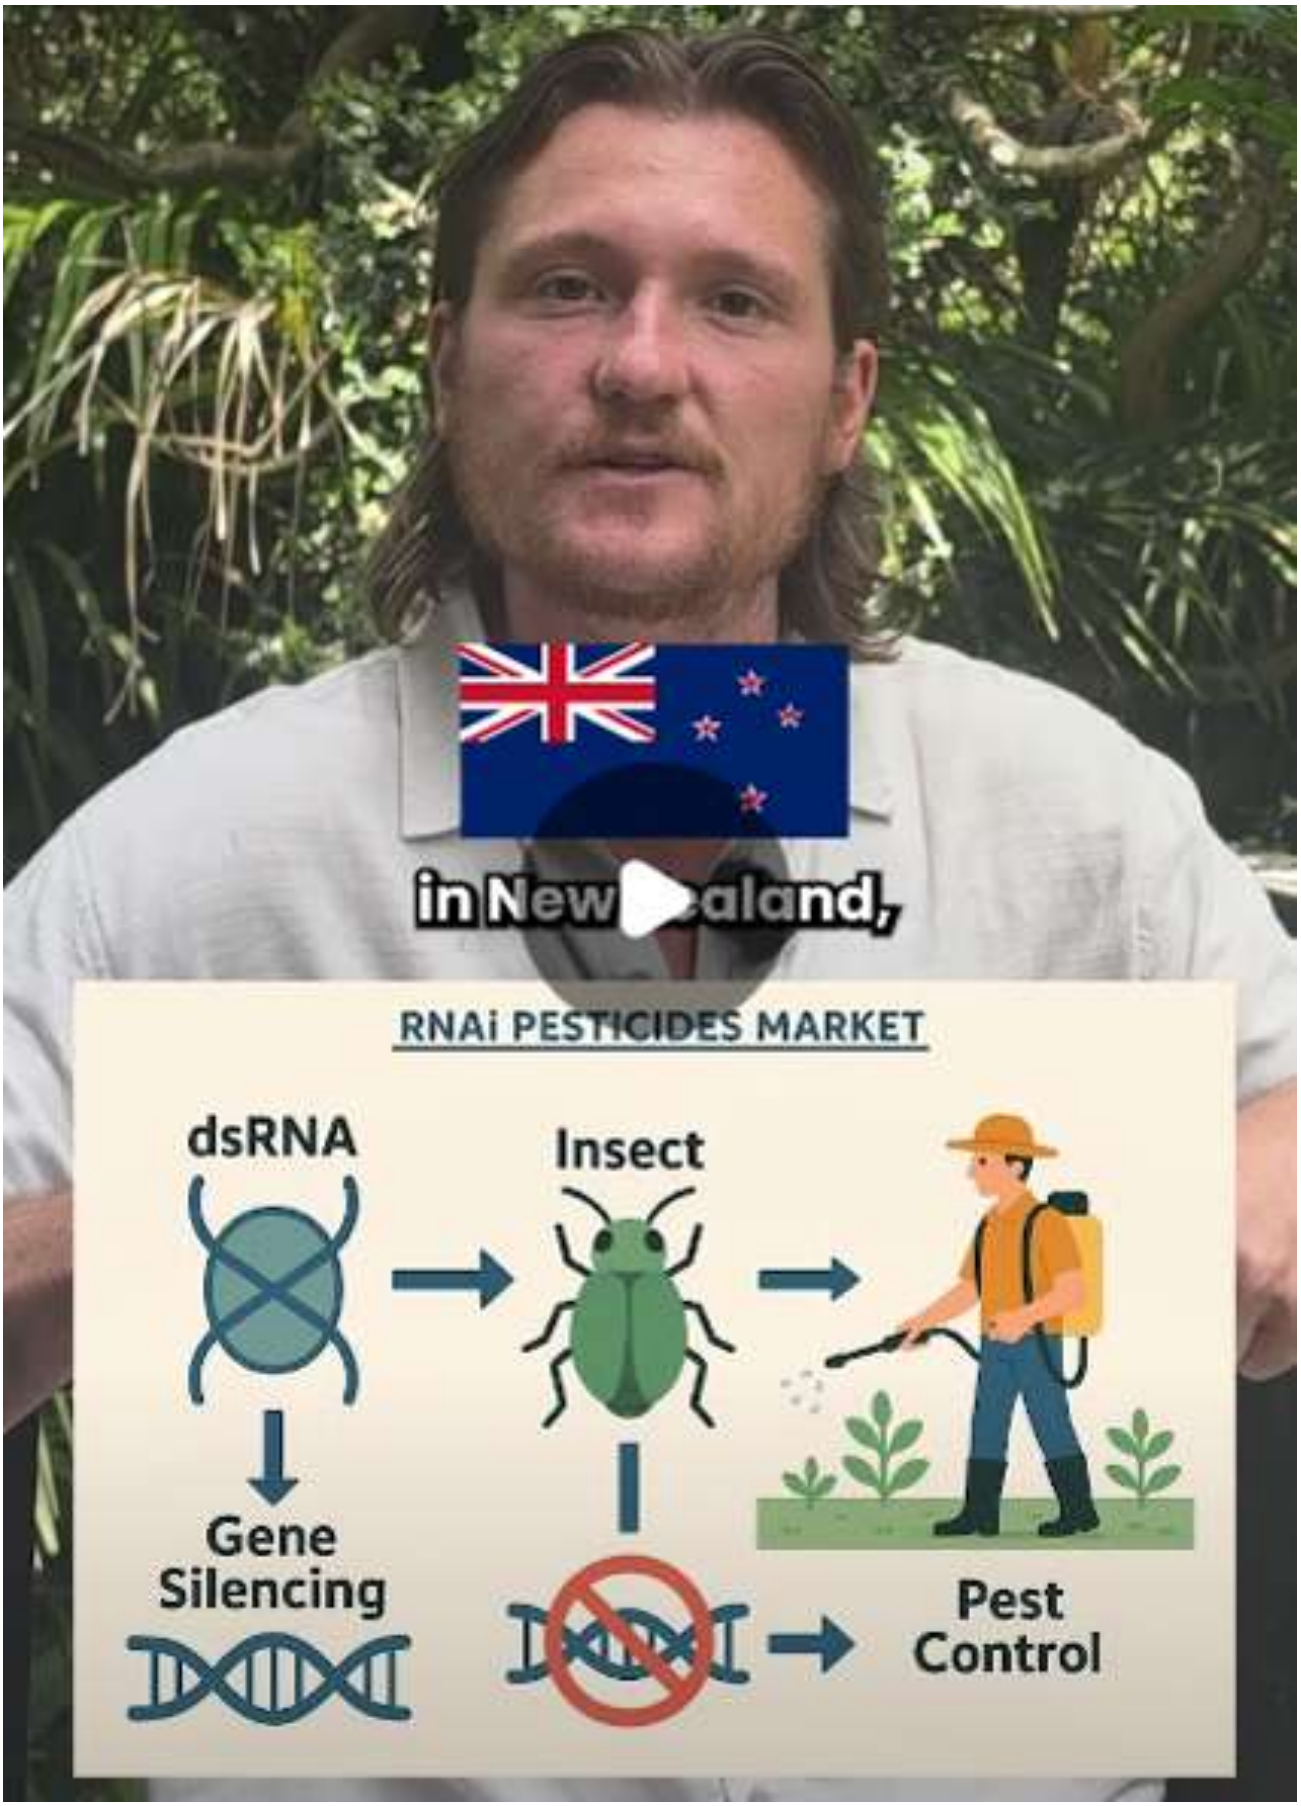

A massive 250-megawatt data centre project planned for Stratford in Taranaki is one step closer after Contact Energy formally applied for resource consents.

Environmental groups, meanwhile, are calling for the proposal to be halted until national guidelines for data centres can be drawn up. Not everybody was pleased about the proposed project. Energy Watch Taranaki spokesperson Sarah Roberts wanted the proposal stopped in its tracks.

"The development of mega data centres could have far-reaching impacts and implications on New Zealand's energy system, local environments, land use and data sovereignty. Read the whole story here.

Local Freedom Hangout Closed Due to Council Bullying

From: The Editor, NZ Rising Newsletter
Leanne Harling's Camphill Coffee in Hawea near Wanaka has been a magnet for freedom lovers and a base for open conversations, good food and coffee, music, a community meeting place and a series of local markets. Leanne decided to exit the Council System and create a private club, where people signed a membership roster. QLDC Council has spent countless hours and taxpayer's money bringing Harling before the court for not participating in the regulatory system from which private clubs are exempt. Harling closed her doors last month but continues to be hassled and fined by the council. When news first broke in the mainstream regional press, Harling had people from throughout the area showing up in support, standing in line to sign up for her private club. Evan, a well-known All Black who lives in the neighbourhood, waited in line. In a message to us from Harling, she stated, "I have been bullied, stalked, harassed, detained, searched for two years now. Because of this I closed my private membership. I found their conduct was corrupt and I won't participate in corruption."

What They Don't Want Us To Question Green Politics and GE Food

From Penny Marie & Ewan Campbell on Youtube
What happens when people start questioning the systems they've always been told to trust? In this special collaboration, Ewan Campbell sits down with Penny Marie, founder of Let Kids Be Kids and host of People in Politics, for a wide-ranging conversation about farming, food production, politics, parenting and the importance of independent thinking.
Coming from different backgrounds but sharing a similar willingness to challenge the status quo, Ewan and Penny discuss their experiences questioning established institutions, the pushback that can come with it, and why they believe people need to take greater responsibility for their own decisions.
From the challenges facing New Zealand farmers to the growing demand for healthier food, this conversation explores what can happen when we look beyond the usual narratives and start asking different questions. See the interview here.

'Flat', 'Tired', 'Cynical': Unusually Gloomy Kiwis Deliver New Zealand's Tightest Election In Years

Today's Edition of Died Suddenly RIP Tamsyn Hayes

New Zealand voted in a new government as fog choked the capital, Wellington, on Saturday - and the mood was as palpable as the grey weather.
"It's pretty flat," 21-year-old Imogen Vlutger says. "There's this kind of apathy and a bit of dread."
"Tired. I think we're all tired," Symone, 28, admits.
"I didn't even vote," one man in his 40s sheepishly confesses. He couldn't bring himself to tick any of the boxes, he explains, declining to chat further.
"Wellington's a bit of a bubble," another voter says, expressing a caveat I heard often, before describing feeling disillusioned.
But polling shows this is a pervasive sentiment across the country: the national mood is low and faith in politics is even lower.

In today's edition of Died Suddenly RIP Tamsyn Hayes, aged 41, police Sergeant and Ironman athlete of Dunedin. Jacinda Ardern's government announced the COVID-19 vaccine mandate for the New Zealand Police on 26 November 2021.
On February 25, 2022, the High Court of New Zealand ruled that Ardern's COVID-19 vaccine mandate for New Zealand Police and New Zealand Defence Force (NZDF) personnel was unlawful and invalid. Ardern's media kept that quiet and continued to push the mandates and clot shots on everyone else. See the original post here.

New UKMFA Campaign
Informed Consent for Baby Jabs

Editor's Note: This was going to be just another article, which I found on our NZ Rising chat, but there's more to this. To my surprise, I and others in the chat are unable to view both the UKMFA's website and the specific page on their new campaign about the vaccination system for infants and informed consent for parents. The site comes up, but is blurred. It looks like someone doesn't want us to see the site. I had to substitute a similar image, of mother and child, for the one that briefly popped up on the site before being blurred.

From: UK Medical Freedom Aliance
We are delighted to announce the launch of a new campaign to empower and equip parents facing a coercive vaccination system and to be confident in conversations with healthcare professionals.
UKMFA believe that parents are being prevented from accessing the necessary information to give true informed consent when taking their babies for vaccination. And, worse, that the vaccination system is highly coercive and, at its most extreme, may even deny parents the right to decline these products for their babies and children. This is a gross violation of medical ethics and must be challenged. Try to view the website here, and good luck.
One of NZ Rising's members did find this, however:
The Freedom Report discusses 'Childhood Vaccination & lack of Informed Consent' on The Pulse.
James Freeman hosts with guests: Dr Elizabeth Evans of UK Medical Freedom Alliance, Dr Sarah Myhill, British Naturopath, Dr Ros Jones, Retired Consultant Paediatrician of Hart Group. You can see the interview here.

When Nearly Every Major Asset Class Sells Off "Ok Everybody, Just Calm Down."

From Zet, and Image/Title phrase above, Matthew Galloway on X
Stocks are crashing. Crypto is crashing. Gold is crashing. Silver is crashing. Copper is crashing. Oil is crashing.
Hey Grok, historically, when nearly every major asset class sells off simultaneously, what does that tell us about market conditions, and what typically follows?"
Grok: "Simultaneous sell-offs across stocks, crypto, gold, silver, copper and oil typically signal a liquidity squeeze or forced deleveraging. Investors dump whatever is liquid to raise cash or meet margin calls, driving correlations near 1 regardless of fundamentals
Historically (March 2020, acute 2008 phase, 2022 episodes) these panics are often brief. Once forced selling exhausts or policy injects liquidity, sharp rebounds commonly follow."
From WendyCoin: When everything crashes at once, it's usually a dash for cash, not every asset suddenly going bad. Leveraged funds get margin calls and sell what they can, even gold. March 2020 and late 2018 were quick flushes that ended in new highs within months. 2008 was different because the banks broke. Watch credit spreads and the banks. If they hold, this is a flush, and cash is king. See the original post here.

An email sent by Jeffrey Epstein to Peter Thiel that has the Rothschild Family reference. (Photo: X)

By Marcos Paulo Candeloro

In February 2016, Jeffrey Epstein wrote an email to Peter Thiel, co-founder of PayPal and Palantir, with a sentence that should have made the front page of every newspaper in the Western world: "As you probably know, I represent the Rothschilds." The sentence is in the Epstein Files. It is an official document of the United States Department of Justice. And the mainstream press treated it as it would a footnote about the weather in Bermuda.

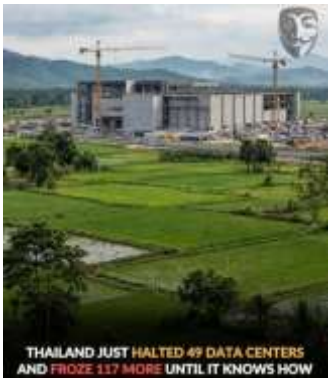

The name "Rothschild" appears nearly 12,000 times across the 3.8 million pages released in January 2026. Twelve thousand times. By comparison, "Clinton" appears at a significantly lower frequency. But in the media ecosystem that Chomsky helped build, repeating the name Rothschild in an investigative context is automatically reclassified as conspiratorial delusion. Convenient when yours is the most cited name in the largest child sex trafficking scandal in modern history. See more here.

Surveillance and Control System Revealed

From: Sarah Westall on Rumble
Award-winning scientists Caroline Mansfield and Jesse Beltran join the program to break down the findings of their landmark study on the GHOST Program. Their research earned both scientists prestigious recognition, including Mansfield's Stevie Award for Female Scientist of the Year and Beltran's Glen H. Whidden Award for Best New TSCM Product.

In this compelling discussion, Mansfield and Beltran explain the GHOST study, its methodology, and their findings, which demonstrates the presence of nanobots in every human body. The implications are deeply troubling, raising serious questions about how far surveillance and control technologies have advanced and what they could mean for human privacy, autonomy, and freedom.

"The Establishment" As A Global Public-Private Partnership.

At their most effective, a social movement is a grassroots-based subgroup within a population. Members are collectively committed to a sustained social and/or political campaign. The movement's primary goal may be to change the sociopolitical status quo, either in whole or in part, or to resist changes proposed by the guardians of the status quo—the Establishment.
In 1955, Henry Farlie Hose described the Establishment as "the whole matrix of official and social relations within which power is exercised." He was not simply referring to the executive, legislature, and the judiciary. He meant a "matrix" of sociopolitical power held together by the "social relations" between leaders of the government and its institutions, the judiciary, the military, the church, academia, big business, the media, and the aristocracy, etc. See the post here.

Mcdonald's Loses Lawsuit Against Chef Jamie Oliver

Even before this process, the TV presenter says, this meat was unfit for human consumption.
Oliver, a radical activist chef taking on the food industry, says:
"We are talking about meat that is sold as dog food and then served to humans. Read more here.
Editor's Note: Wanaka/QLDCD Council take note: Maybe instead of letting McDonalds continue with their new restaurant build at the entrance of town, you should pivot, and ask them to tear it down in light of this new court case decision.
